WASHINGTON.

"One, the first, and last, and best;
The Cincinnatus of the west,
Whom envy dared not hate,
Beqneathed the name of Washington
To make men blush, there was but one."

"First in war, he drew his patriot band
Not worlds to conquer, but a world to save;
When peace and freedom blessed his native land,
Resigned his power into the hands that gave.

Illustrious man! could not ambition, then,
Tempt thee to turn against thy country's breast,
Thy victor's sword, and be like other men,
And hailed a hero like the laureled rest?

Ah no! thy laurels were by virtue won,
Pure and untarnished by a single stain;
Freedom and Glory claim their Washington,
Millions unborn shall venerate that name."

WASHINGTON MEMORIES.

"The city of Philadelphia being in danger from the enemy, Congress adjourned December 12th, 1776, to Baltimore. They now gave to WASHINGTON entire control of the operations of the war."

"WASHINGTON crossed the Delaware on the night of the 25th of December, 1776, nine miles above Trenton with about 2,500 men—attacked the enemy, gained a great victory; took 1000 prisoners, six field pieces, and a thousand stand of arms."

On Thursday, April 30th, 1789, George Washington took the oath required by the Constitution, which was administered to him by the chancellor of the State of New York, and then delivered his inaugural address.

"WASHINGTON attacked the British at Princeton, New Jersey, January 3d, 1777, and after a warm contest gained a decided victory. Of the British 100 men were killed and 300 taken prisoners. The loss of the Americans was 100. General Mercer was slain and Lieutenant James Monroe—since President of the United States, was wounded."

WASHINGTON'S Farewell Address, is dated "United States, 17th September, 1796."

WASHINGTON was President for two terms.
1st. From March 4, 1789 to March 4, 1793.
2nd. From March 4, 1793 to March 4, 1797.

In the year 1800 the seat of the national government was removed to the city of Washington.

THE WASHINGTON FAIR JOURNAL.

PHILADELPHIA, FEBRUARY 22, 1859.

GEORGE F. GORDON, Editor.

SMILE!

The Fair! the beautiful, beautiful Fair! Sweet as starlight it greets our sight. The Fair "vision" is dissolved! with all its fanciful beams advancing and receding—into glowing and radiant reality!

A success! a royal reality, rosy and lovely—is this Washington Monument Fair! A perfect sun-burst of rainbow beauty. Ah! but we forgot,—it is usual in taking the chair-editorial, to make "our bow"—to usher ourself (i. e. editor) before the public with a "salutatory"—but these things are too cold and formal for us! We smile! Let us all smile! And if any desire to let their imprisoned souls out in a merry, joyful laugh, let it ring and rattle, like a soul equipped with winged plumage, for a journey of joy!

The Washington Fair Journal! A daily! "Did you ever." "Who would have thought it." We thought of it—and here it is! Now the question is what shall we do for our numerous patrons? Well, let us see. We shall not homeletic you, nor essay you, nor philosophize you. No indeed. What shall we do? The future will show—as the story-writers say—"to be continued!"

The Journal—to be serious and practical—will contain, of course, smiling editorials and sweet poeticals; the "local news" of the Fair, advertisements of the sectional tables, "latest news by telegraph!" answers to correspondents, chronicle distinguished visitors, &c., &c.

But, the most important feature of the Journal will be, the publication in its columns of the names of all the donors to the Washington Monument Association—to be hereafter bound up and deposited in the monument.

So we leave you on this, our first editorial visit, blest, we hope, with one editorial smile!

THE BATTLE OF GERMANTOWN.

When Sir William Howe took possession of Philadelphia, he quartered a portion of his troops at Germantown, while others were sent toward the position held by the Americans. Washington conceived this a fair opportunity of striking a blow at his adversary. He collected together all the troops within his reach; and on the night of the 3d of October, 1777, broke up his camp, about fifteen miles from Germantown, and advanced upon the British. Several unfortunate events occurred, during the night, which had their effect upon the next day's disaster. Count Pulaski was found asleep in a farm-house. The ammunition wagons were delayed, and the officer in whose charge they were was afterwards found in a field, drunk.

The attack commenced about daylight. The pickets were forced, and the infantry fled in confusion. So sudden was the surprise, that the officers' watches were found hanging up in their tents, together with their trunks of clothing. The latter was a most welcome prize to the victors. The infantry, however, were soon rallied by their officers, and annoyed the Americans by firing from the houses and other defencible places in the course of retreat.

Several companies of the 40th regiment threw themselves into Chew's House—a large stone building—and, barricading the lower windows, fired with most destructive effect from the upper windows, and also from the cellars. The Americans finding that musketry had but little effect, brought up their cannon; but after firing fifteen or twenty rounds, they were found too small to make any impression. Attempts were made by Colonel Laurens and Major White to set the building on fire, but without success. The Major was mortally wounded.

Washington, who had cheered on his soldiers in their career, as they drove the enemy from point to point, now arrived in the vicinity of Chew's House, and a consultation was held to form a plan to be pursued in regard to this obstacle in their way of success. The younger officers were in favor of leaving Chew's House, or stationing a body of troops to guard the place, and pressing on with the column in pursuit of the flying enemy; but the senior officers would not consent to leaving a fortified enemy in their rear.

A heavy fog which had been prevailing all the morning now became so dense that it was almost impossible to distinguish friend from foe; and a retreat was ordered at a moment when victory seemed to be placing another chaplet upon the brow of Washington.

When the cannonading was heard in Philadelphia, Sir William Howe dispatched additional troops to Germantown; but notwithstanding, Washington saved all his artillery, and the wounded were taken to the camp which they had left the evening before. Gen. Nash was mortally wounded in this battle, and died a few days after.

THE WASHINGTON FAIR JOURNAL.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 5, 1859.

GEORGE F. GORDON, Editor.

Smile Again!

The rush to the Hall, has been so great, and the duties of the editor so numerous and urgent, that it has been quite impossible to issue THE JOURNAL daily, as at first intended. Another reason is, that we have not been furnished with the names of Donors in the several Sections. So, we are doing the best we can under all the circumstances.

Who will say now, that the Fair is not a charming success? Who will say now, that this noble and praiseworthy enterprise does not deserve the public favor? The memory of our illustrious Washington shall now have an external evidence in our city, in some splendid monumental pile, in some central location, of the devotion of a splendid array of school teachers, and a glorious young American army of Public School pupils—together with parents, friends and citizens generally.

Everything has worked like a charm, it could not be otherwise, when queens of beauty preside! The truth is not flattery!

And, on occasions like the present, when the credit is justly due to the ladies, for their untiring energy and devotion, it is eminently proper to give honor to whom honor is due.

It is estimated, that since the opening of the Fair, on the 22d of February, until the present, March 2d, fifty thousand persons have visited the Fair! May we not then exult in our beautiful Fair? We do exult, and rejoice. And, when the disadvantages under which we have labored, are considered, we have abundant reason to be glad and sing for joy!

Teachers will please notice, that it will be quite impossible for us to arrange the names of the donors for our paper. This must be attended to by the Teacher having charge of the affairs of her Section. The lists to look well, should be prepared in the following order. First, teachers, then pupils, under the heading of the schools to which they belong. Then friends in general under two classes.—First, under the head, Donations in Articles.—Second Donations in Money. The articles need not be named, nor the sum of money given. This should be done at once.

Promises—It was promised by the Association, that the names of all the donors should be preserved and deposited in the Monument. We begun in the first number of the Journal to redeem our promises by printing the names, and will do so as far as they are handed to us. If any are omitted it will not be our fault. We are anxious to receive the names of all donors without delay.

OUR WALK THROUGH THE FAIR.

It seems to us quite proper, that we should notice, in order, the tables of the several Sections represented, so that the names of those who have been active should be chronicled in our "Sweet little Journal"—to be read by tens of thousands, and finally find a beautiful and glorious resting-place in the Washington Monument, which it is now certain we shall build!

We may remark, in general, that never before has there been witnessed in this city. so delightful, so beautiful, so radiant and blissful a patriotism, as has been displayed by those Teachers of the Public Schools, who have moved with angel-energy and sweetness, to execute the grand design of building a monument to Washington, in the city of Philadelphia. The sweet memory of these teachers is even now cherished in rosy freshness, and bloom in the hearts of thousands unnumbered. Time will bring on his swift wings no blast to wither, no storm to crush these flowers immortal! But, rather, on the glad wings of every wind, their fragrance and their praise will waft and waft, on seas of human hearts, and be borne along the illustrious highway of a glorious future in radiant chariots of jewelled and flowery beauty, drawn in triumphal march by the garlanded and conquering army of our Public School pupils, and legions of sympathising friends.

The First Section.—The ladies of this Section have shown great taste in the selection of articles, as well as the most untiring amiability in attending the Fair from day to day. Furniture, silver ware, fancy and useful articles, abound.

Drawings.—Since our last edition, Mrs. Campbell of No. 1062 North Front street, drew a large and splendid portrait of Washington. Miss Hickey residing in 5th street above Master, a beautiful vase of wax fruit, and Miss Palmer a vase of confections, all being from the hard working SEVENTEENTH SECTION. Also Miss Mary J. Dickinson a handsome silver fruit basket from the FIFTEENTH SECTION table,—a silver set from same table by Miss Stratton, 6th below Coates street. The following parties drew valuable articles from the table of the TENTH SECTION, J. H. Randall, Esq., Mr. McKeusy, Mrs. Jewell, Mrs. Dr. Angey, and Mrs. Nichols. The handsome mantle clock on the EIGHTEENTH SECTION table, valued at $100, was drawn by E. W. C. Green, editor of the "Sunday Transcript."

Promises.—It was promised by the Association, that the names of all the donors should be preserved and deposited in the Monument. We begun in the first number of the Journal to redeem our promises by printing the names, and will do so as far as they are handed to us. If any are omitted it will not be our fault. We are anxious to receive the names of all donors without delay.

THE WASHINGTON FAIR JOURNAL.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 10, 1859.

GEORGE F. GORDON, Editor.

Important Suggestion.—A number of our friends, and the ardent friends of the Philadelphia Washington Monument have suggested to the editor of the Journal, that he should continue its publication monthly, until the Monument is finished. The idea is a good one, and will do more to keep the fires of generous patriotism alive, then any thing else in connection with this grand movement of the Public Schools of the City of Philadelphia.

As a register of the Association, as a ledger for the names of all donors to the Monument, as a Souvenir of taste, of patriotism, of public spirit, such a publication will be invaluable. It will be for others to say, whether this shall be done, or not. If the teachers and pupils of the Public Schools will say, in any distinct form, that they wish it, we shall cheerfully give our humble labors to the work, and devote the proceeds, after paying expenses, to build the Monument. We pause for an answer.

Donations.—A. DeKalb Tarr, Esq., a gentleman of acknowledged ability in and about Philadelphia, has kindly presented to the Managers of the "Washington Monument Fair," 13 copies of his last work entitled, "The American Reader," which appears to possess considerable merit, and has been recently adopted by the "Board of Control," as one of a series of readers in our Public Schools.

Lectures.—"The Committee on Lectures" of the Association, have been engaged for some time in endeavoring to get up this season, a brilliant course of Lectures, but find the season too far gone; although letters have been received from a number of prominent gentlemen, among whom we find the names of Hon. Stephen A. Douglass, Hon. Henry A Wise, Governor of Virginia; Hon. Wm. M Meredith, David P. Brown, Henry Ward Beecher, and others. And a printed letter from the distinguished contributor to the "New York Ledger,"—Hon. Edward Everett

OUR WALK THROUGH THE FAIR.

It seems to us quite proper, that we should notice, in order, the tables of the several Sections represented, so that the names of those who have been active should be chronicled in our "Sweet little Journal"—to be read by tens of thousands, and finally find a beautiful and glorious resting-place in the Washington Monument, which it is now certain we shall build!

We may remark, in general, that never before has there been witnessed in this city, so delightful, so beautiful, so radiant and blissful a patriotism, as has been displayed by those Teachers of the Public Schools, who have moved with angel-energy and sweetness, to execute the grand design of building a monument to Washington, in the city of Philadelphia. The sweet memory of these teachers is even now cherished in rosy freshness, and bloom in the hearts of thousands unnumbered. Time will bring on his swift wings no blast to wither, no storm to crush these flowers immortal! But, rather, on the glad wings of every wind, their fragrance and their praise will waft and waft, on seas of human hearts, and be borne along the illustrious highway of a glorious future in radiant chariots of jewelled and flowery beauty, drawn in triumphal march by the garlanded and conquering army of our Public School pupils, and legions of sympathising friends.

The First Section.—The ladies of this Section have shown great taste in the selection of articles, as well as the most untiring amiability in attending the Fair from day to day. Furniture, silver ware, fancy and useful articles, abound.

The ladies prominent about this table, have been the Misses Elizabeth Moyn, Anna Neath, Sarah and Lizzie Peltz, Emma Christopher, Mary Speel, Ellen Shaw, Eliza Ely, Susan Beck, Susan Beck, Annie Robinson, and Geo. C. Evans, Esq., Messrs. Chas. S. Close and Geo. W. Rickards, are the delegates from this Section.

The Second Section, have made a fine display and excellent sales Much credit is due all parties concerned for their untiring industry and energy. Messrs William Allen and M. A. Davis, are the Delegates, and amongst those who have been active at the table, we might mention the Misses Eleanor Sandgran, C. M'Farland, E. Seyfert, Georgiana Pierson, Elizabeth Traynor, Sarah Sandgran, Sallie Quigley, E. W. Kille, Fanny Conway, Lizzie Kirk, Mary A Godshall, C. M. Sanders, A. B. Grover, M. A. McKay, Rachel R. Evans, S. Harrison, Josephine Johnson, and Messrs. James Hoffman, C. E. Gaskill, W. N. Tisdall, Wm. Henry Allen, Samuel and John Edwards, Chas. Sandgran and Henry Edwards.

The Third Section, is represented by Messrs. W. J. Jackson and William Stedman, as Delegates, and have made a fine display of useful and fancy articles. The following ladies have been active at this Table.

The Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Sections, were not represented with tables; the Ninth Section, however, contributed largely in articles, the list of contributors will be found among the others. The Delegates from this Section are John H. Wheeler and J. Freeborn.

The Tenth Section.—We say but little at this time, of the Tenth, for the reason, that if we were to say all the truth in regard to the ladies of this Section, it would seem like an attempt to flatter, and be offensive to them. And, yet, we cannot pass them without saying; that they are all, and did all, their most ardent friends could desire to adorn, to beautify, to grace and give success to the Fair. The Delegates from this Section, are the worthy President and Secretary of the Association, J. H. Randall and J. Cooper, to whose energy the Association owes its existence.

The Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Sections, were not represented with tables, although many of the teachers and pupils contributed articles—especially in the Fourteenth Section.

The Fifteenth Section.—Modesty forbids that we should say very much about our own Sweet Section. It was the "Star Table," and was managed by as fair a circle of noble-hearted ladies, as can be found anywhere in any School Section throughout the city. The table was principally under the charge of Misses Deihr, Clark, the three Misses Ash, the two Miss Martins, Thomas, Caril, Faunce, De Sanno, Sunderline, Mendenhall, Ward, and a host of the bright, cheerful and beautiful Teachers, whose names will be found in another part of our paper.

Sixteenth Section.—This Section made a fine display, the delegates are Wm. H. Gominger, M.D, and Thos. S Strouhouer.

The attendants on the table were as follows:

Rachel Briggs	Kate Huey	Emeline Smith

Kate H Cooper	Emma Clay	J E Carpenter
Anna S Beckel	H Williamson	George Bates
Mary Maxwel	Sarah Rickards	—Leinhardt
Anna Clarke	—— Morris

The Seventeenth Section, made a fine display of useful and fancy articles, and were remarkably successful in getting them advantageously disposed of; although they did not come in to the movement until quite recently, they made a very creditable return to the funds; Messrs Thos. E. Harkins and John S. Bosler, were the Delegates; Mr. Harkins, the Secretary and member of the Committee on Fair from this Section, was constantly in attendance, and by his zealousness and gentlemanly deportment has made for himself hosts of friends. The following ladies were the attendants at the table:

ADDRESS

Of the Washington Monument Association of the First School District of Pennsylvania.

Presented by the Committee—George F. Gordon, John R. Angney, M. D., Charles S. Close—and unanimously adopted by the Board of Managers, December 10, 1858.

On the 22d of February, 1832, being the Centennial Anniversary of Washington's birthday, the grand and imposing ceremony of laying the "corner stone" of a proposed Monument to Washington, in Washington Square, was inaugurated.

The display was an imposing one; the "corner stone" was laid by the Mayor of the city, John Swift, and addresses were delivered by David Paul Brown and J. R. Chandler. From that day to this, it has remained as laid, covered over, and the green grass growing over and around it.

The Washington Monument Association of the First School District of Pennsylvania springs up to-day in manhood's strength, garlanded with such beauty and power, as only can find root and blooming flowerage in American patriot hearts. It comes with an earnest and resurrecting faith, to breathe the spirit-power of Washington memories on that "corner stone," which has slumbered in our midst these twenty-five years and more. To untomb it; to transplant it, if need be, to a more generous soil, where, by the cherishing of patriot hands and hearts, it may grow up above all other heights of monumental or architectural beauty, which now or hereafter may adorn our city—to mould the words of the past into ornate deeds of the present, in a word, to BUILD a monument to our beloved Washington, is the mission of this Association.

To this end, we seek the co-operation of the whole community: every man, every woman, every child. The work must go on. The materials for the erection of a monument are abundant. It needs but organize the sympathies, and systemize the actions of our people, by a bold, energetic, well-directed effort. An effort laden with the wisdom and experience of the past, which will seek to begin and progress every day with the work, as the only sure and hopeful means for its final accomplishment.

Our pathway may be rough for awhile, because of the obstructions which other efforts have left in the way; but, with iron energy, and sleepless faith, we have set ourselves to this work; and we need but the radiant smile of the community to illuminate our path, and crown our efforts with success. Our actions shall be practical, prompt, and to the point.

It is Resolved:—

FIRST. To fix the place where the monument is to be erected.

SECOND. The style, character, and materials of which the monument is to be composed.

THIRD. To begin the work at once, and invest every cent of the money received in the monument alone.

Thus will the public be satisfied, and stimulated from year to year to complete the work begun.

It has long been deemed a blot upon the fair fame of our city—a city so closely connected with the men and the achievements of the revolutionary struggle, that we have been so tardy in setting up some striking and substantial memorial, that shall tell to future ages that we have not forgotten our obligations, but that we retain an undying gratitude towards the men of the revolution, and especially for that great spirit whose genius led our armies, after so many years of darkness, doubt and dismay, to final victory; and who, when "grim-visaged war had smoothed his wrinkled front," did not abate his efforts for his country's good. His moderation and wisdom, in uniting and controlling the distracting elements that threatened the stability of the union, and, as the head of the civil administration, in giving the true direction to the policy of the government, rendered the name of Washington not less illustrious in peace than in war. The energy and public spirit of neighboring cities have far surpassed our own in rearing lofty cenotaphs in honor of our illustrious men, or to commemorate important events. WE have nothing to show to the stranger, or to our posterity, which expresses our grateful feelings to the immortal dead, who pledged life, fortune, and honor, to surround us with so many national blessings. We appeal, then, to the people of Philadelphia, to aid us in the accomplishment of this work. It is one that is alike due to their patriotism, their position and public spirit, and we can not for a moment suppose, that the veneration which pervades the minds of our people for the name of Washington, shall now permit the efforts we are making to fail for want of pecuniary support. For nowhere, do we think, should there be a more vivid consciousness of the great claims of Washington to some imposing manifestation of our remembrance of his achievements, than in the city of Philadelphia.

As long as we have among and around us so many localities associated with the heroic actions of our revolutionary contest—as long as the great "Hall of Independence," whence were proclaimed "the thoughts that breathed and words that burned," that caused a new nation to spring into existence, shall stand and be remembered—while the trying disasters of Brandywine and Germantown, the harrowing cruelties of Wyoming, the gallant defence at Red Bank, and, in the darkest hour of despondency, the brilliant success at Trenton and Princeton, are remembered, we should never forget the part enacted by the great patriot, whose firmness, prudence and courage never faltered in all the vicissitudes of the American arms.

Never should the community, whose fathers so well and so faithfully bore their part in those times of trial, fail to respond to a call that proposes to rear some imposing structure in our city, as a slight memento of our grateful regard to that great man, whom a noble poet terms:

> "One, the first, and last, and best;
> The Cincinnatus of the west,
> Whom envy dared not hate,
> Bequeathed the name of Washington,
> To make man blush, there was but one."

The monumental history of the world is a magnificent one. From the Pyramids of Egypt to the polished statuary of Greece and Rome, down to the monumental grandeur of modern Europe, its lessons are striking, varied and beautiful. But what are they all, compared with the one which we seek to arouse you to erect.

What lessons of patriotism, and virtue, and prudence, and justice, and liberty, cluster in rich profusion around the character of our loved Washington. The charms and glories of his matchless character have drawn from an orator in another land, this beautiful and glowing combination of words: "Cæsar was merciful, Scipio was content, Hannibal was patient, but it was reserved for Washington to blend them all in one; and, like the lovely master-piece of the Grecian artist, to exhibit in one glow of associated beauty, the pride of every model, the perfection of every master. As a General, he marshaled the peasant into a veteran, and supplied by discipline the absence of experience; as a statesman, he enlarged the policy of the cabinet into the most comprehensive system of general advantage; and such were the wisdom of his views, and the philosophy of his councils, that to the soldier and statesman, he almost added the sage. A conqueror, he was unstained with the crime of blood. A revolutionist, he was free from any stain of treason; for aggression commenced the contest, and his country called him to the command; liberty unsheathed his sword; necessity stained it; victory, triumphant victory, returned it. Had he stopped here, history might have doubted what station to assign to him; but his last glorious act crowns his career, and banishes all hesitation. Who, like Washington, after having emancipated a hemisphere, resigned its crown, and preferred the retirement of domestic life to the pomps and splendors of a court?"

To such a character, to the hero type of American manhood and universal admiration, we invite you to raise, in this city of Penn and Franklin, a monument which shall stand out in bold relief, as a great letter in the magnificent alphabet of our nation's grandeur and power.

We would press you into the service of this work, not because our Washington has no monument, nor because he needs any to perpetuate the purity of his virtues, the wisdom of his policy, and the full-orbed grandeur of his combined character. In every patriot heart, within the wide circumference of our Union, there is a Washington Monument,—millions in numbers! On the green pastures, by the still waters, on the mountain heights, amid the blossoming fruitage of the valleys, in all lands where civilization has illumed the darkness, Washington has monuments! Around us are other monuments, collossal and grand. Our nation's capital is a monument to our hero-father. Our thirty-two sovereign States are the magnificent unfoldings of imperishable monumental glory to him who was peerless among his fellows. The genius of Greenough has added to the triumphs of modern statuary, his Washington at Capitol Hill. Crawford has planted his master-piece of American art, in his equestrian Washington, on Richmond Hill, in Virginia's capital. By the margin of the sweet Potomoc, at the nation's capital, the broad and deep foundations of a monument have been laid, and upward it rises to challenge the sun in his morning march to meridian glory; plain without, but, within, bearing the multifold signs and seals, and symbols of our nation's associated wisdom, benevolence, brotherhood, artistic genius, and power. Our halls and homes, are they not adorned with the triumphs of the brush and pencil of Stuart, and Trumbull, and our own Peale!

But, above and beyond all these manifestations of a nation's homage, and reverence, and gratitude: we, in Philadelphia, want a Washington Monument for ourselves—for this locality; as a companion to "Independence Hall," to teach us, and generations yet unborn, the great lessons of Virtue, Liberty and Independence!

Come, then, with us. In union there is beauty and strength. Let us give outward expression to the sentiments in our hearts. Let our words be transformed into deeds; and our deeds, let them be chiseled by the sculptor's hand into enduring ornaments of monumental gracefulness, and undying affection and esteem, for him who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

> "First in war, he drew his patriot brand,
> Not worlds to conquer, but a world to save;
> When peace and freedom blessed his native land,
> Resigned his power into the hands that gave.
> Illustrious man! could not ambition, then,
> Tempt thee to turn against thy country's breast
> Thy victor's sword, and be like other men,
> And hailed a hero like the laureled rest?
> Ah, no! thy laurels were by virtue won,
> Pure and untarnished by a single stain;
> Freedom and Glory claim their Washington,
> Millions unborn shall venerate that name."

THE FUTURE.

"Now, by St Paul, the work goes bravely on."—Yes, it moves like a bride adorned for the altar, radiant with charms and blushing with noble pride. The work will go on! No clique of sham aristocracy, or fogyism, or jealousy, can now stay the onward progress of this noble work. When we look back to the past for a moment our hearts swell with emotions of joy. For twenty-five long years a certain "corner-stone" has slept in Washington Square; after being laid with such pomp and circumstance as seemed to warrant its speedy completion. Although in the hands of men of position of "family" and of wealth, yet the building of a monument to Washington in Philadelphia has, so far, been delayed, and that too, when facts conclusively show, that money enough is in somebody's hands to build the monument. Such an action reflects no credit upon those, who have, and still hold this money.

Our course shall be far otherwise. Our Association has not yet been six months in existence, yet, we have done a great work. We have aroused the public mind to the subject—this alone is worth thousands. We have just closed one of the most successful Fairs ever held in this city. The proceeds, which amount to over $4,000, will not be invested in stocks, to accumulate by interest, or be lost sight of altogether. No! no! never!

What then? we will at once, receive plans and estimates for the monument. We will at once, fix upon a proper location to build the monument! The monument once begun, every cent of the money now raised, and hereafter to be raised, shall be constantly and faithfully applied to its erection.

We have much more to say on this subject, but must close for the present. This much, however, we have to say, that on the fourth day of July 1859, the grandest sight ever witnessed in this city, aye, or in the United States, will be seen in Philadelphia, on the occasion of the laying of the corner stone of the Philadelphia Washington Monument—by the WASHINGTON MONUMENT ASSOCIATION OF THE FIRST SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA!

Important Suggestion.—A number of our friends, and the ardent friends of the Philadelphia Washington Monument have suggested to the editor of the Journal, that he should continue its publication monthly, until the Monument is finished. The idea is a good one, and will do more to keep the fires of generous patriotism alive, then any thing else in connection with this grand movement of the Public Schools of the City of Philadelphia.

As a register of the Association, as a ledger for the names of all donors to the Monument, as a Souvenir of taste, of patriotism, of public spirit, such a publication will be invaluable. It will be for others to say, whether this shall be done, or not. If the teachers and pupils of the Public Schools will say, in any distinct form, that they wish it, we shall cheerfully give our humble labors to the work, and devote the proceeds, after paying expenses, to build the Monument. We pause for an answer.

Promises—It was promised by the Association, that the names of all the donors should be preserved and deposited in the Monument. We begun in the first number of the Journal to redeem our promises by printing the names, and will do so as far as they are handed to us If any are omitted it will not be our fault. We are anxious to receive the names of all donors without delay. We have redeemed our promise, and the names handed to us have been published. If, any are not in, it is not our fault.

PHILADELPHIA WASHINGTON MONUMENT JOURNAL.

If circumstances should warrant it, we propose to publish monthly, a little journal with the above title, and to continue it until the monument is finished. Such a journal can, with a very little effort on the part of the teachers, have a circulation of 20,000 copies. This would pay and yield a handsome annual revenue, which would be devoted to the erection of the monument.

We are willing to edit such a journal; and devote the proceeds, after paying expenses, to the erection of the monument. All it needs is the approving smile of the teachers in our public schools. Will they smile? we shall see!

DONATIONS FROM THE PRESS.

The thanks of the Association are due to the following newspapers in the city for donations in advertising and printing.

NOTICES.

It cannot be otherwise than that many omissions have been made in the hurry of getting out our little journal. We are, however, happy to notice, that the Association owe many thanks to James N. Hoffman; to his taste and industry is due the handsome decorations of American flags which adorned the Hall.

PRESENTATIONS.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Joseph Cooper was taken by surprise. Being surrounded by his friends, Dr. Gominger, of the sixteenth ward, stood forth, and in a most beautiful, eloquent and touching speech, presented to Mr. Joseph Cooper a superb gold fob chain of great value. Mr. Cooper, naturally modest, seemed almost overcome, but recovering himself, returned his thanks to his friends with feelings which clearly showed that the fountains of his soul were moved. The occasion was one of exceeding interest.

On Thursday evening the ladies of the fifteenth section presented Mr. Fox with a very handsome silver fruit basket. Mr. G. F. Gordon in behalf of the ladies of the section, made the presentation in his usual flowing and elegant style. Mr. Fox responded in appropriate terms.

Mr. Close, delegate from the first section was presented with a handsome Bible cover by the teachers of his section. Also Dr. Huston and Dr. Gominger and Col. Mather, were respectively favored with handsome presents from their sections.

ANTHONY THOMAS.

This faithful man has been in charge of the Hall during the continuance of the fair, and has given entire satisfaction to the Association. He has become so zealous in the work that he talks of devoting his time to getting subscribers to the Monument Journal.

The other officer also deserve well of the Association, Messrs. Geo B. Simler, Stimmill, Wood, McClellan, Matthews, Vansciver, Riley, and others, whose names we do not recollect.

TEACHERS.

Those Teachers who have taken an active part in the Fair, as well as others who desire to have the Journal continued monthly as a recorder of the history of the Monument, will oblige by sending a note through the despatch to the undersigned, stating how many Journals they will be able to dispose of to their pupils and friends monthly.—George F. IMPORTANT CORRESPONDENCE.

The following correspondence will show that the "Lecture Committee" have been at work for the Association.

No. 225 South Fifth street,
Philadelphia, January 20th, 1859.

Dear Sir,

Upon the 22d day of February, the centennial anniversary of the birth of Washington, our citizens laid in the public square bearing his name, the corner stone of a monument to his memory.

To the present time, nothing further has been done, and those connected with our public schools, feeling the shame of this neglect, have determined to complete the work so begun. To that end, you will perceive, Sir, by the accompanying pamphlet that an organization has been effected, officers appointed, and addresses, issued to the public.

The undersigned have been instructed to solicit your co-operation in their task, by delivering a Lecture in our city at any early time, best suited to your convenience. Expecting the pleasure of your assent, and an early answer, we remain

[Letter from Hon. Henry A. Wise.]

Richmond Va. February 7th, 1859.

GENTLEMEN,

I honor your efforts to rear a monument on the corner stone laid, the centennial birth-day of Washington, by your citizens. "He lives in the hearts of his countrymen," and not in mounds of marble or granite, but a column in memory of his wisdom and virtue ought to rise in view of Independence Hall, if any where on earth. I heartly respond, therefore, with my best wishes to your success. But, gentlemen, my duties are too onerous and incessant, and my health too feeble at this time, that I cannot comply with your request to deliver a lecture in your city at any time within this year. I have not the time to prepare worthily with your wishes, or it would be my pleasure, on such a theme as this to make them my law. Yours truly,

GENTLEMEN,

I have delayed replying to your note in the hope that I might be able to accept your invitation to deliver a lecture before the Washington Monument Association of the First School District of Pennsylvania. I regret much to find after all, that it will be impossible for me to undertake the performance of this most agreeable duty during the present season. Wishing you full success in the praise-worthy effort you are making for the benefit of our native city.

GENTLEMEN,

Accept my thanks for your kind invitation to lecture in the City of Philadelphia in aid of the Washington Monument, which you propose to erect in that city. While I would gladly contribute any thing in my power to aid you in so patriotic an enterprise, I regret that my public duties and other engagements will deprive me of the pleasure of accepting your polite invitation.

PRESENTATION.

At the closing of the Washington Monument Fair on Saturday evening, March 12th a magnificient silver pitcher was presented to Mr. Geo. F. Gordon, the Chairman of the Committee on Fair, by eighteen teachers of the Fifteenth School Section.

While the brilliant and fashionable audience were promenading to the sweet sounds of martial music, the attentive observer might have seen, numerous ladies and gentlemen passing from the main Hall into one of the side rooms. When we entered, by invitation, the room was literally jammed with beautiful and smiling faces. In the center of the room a small circle was left, in it stood John H. Wheeler, Esq, of the Philadelphia Bar, with the gay and fascinating teachers of the fifteenth section on his right, and on his left the good looking gentlemen composing the "Committee on Fair." Some, seemed to know the object of the eclectic meeting, others were on the tip-toe of expectancy. For a moment, a sweet, delightful silence reigned in the midst, of which J. H. Randall, Esq., President of the Association, introduced Mr. G. F. Gordon: Whereupon, Mr. Wheeler said:—

MR. GORDON,

We have met before on many pleasant occasions during the Fair which is now about to close; but, never upon an occasion so full of interest as the present. The scene around us is well calculated to inspire us all with emotions of delight. And, sir, the holy cause in which we are all united, will tend to make this occasion forever memoriable.

The teachers of the Fifteenth Section have conferred upon me the distinguished honor of representing them in the ceremonial of this interesting occasion. Appreciating your valuable services, and, being desirous of manifesting their esteem and high regard for you as a man, a citizen, and one, who has nobly and faithfully conducted himself in our common cause, eighteen of the ladies of the Fifteenth Section have directed me to present you with this beautiful silver pitcher, as a token of their regard for you and their high appreciation of your character as a fearless and eloquent advocate of the interest of the Public Schools of the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. Gordon responded as follows:—

I receive this token of friendship with pleasure. While memory lasts, and my eyes behold this emblem of the tender regards of the lady-teachers of the Fifteenth Section, I cannot forget this scene. To be beloved is sweet To have my humble and unworthy services thus honored, and thus appreciated, touches the fountain-spring of my soul, and makes me almost weep to know, and feel, how poor our choicest language is, when the soul seeks audience and utterance. True, sir, words were made to convey thought and feelings; but, who of us, does not know, that there are thoughts and feelings which no words can truly express. I find myself in that condition now. Most sincerely, do I thank the teachers of the Fifteenth Section for this magnificient memento and remembrancer of their regards for me. It shall bind me to your interests more closely. To cheer you, in your arduous, but noble vocation, will be my constant plensure. This pitcher, will also serve, as a silver cord to bind me stronger than ever, to the grent and glorious cause of Public School education. And, Sir, this occasion makes me feel like consecrating every energy of my soul to our great and common work, so happily alluded to by you, of building a monument in this city to the memory of our loved Washington!

This silver pitcher for water is empty; but to me, to my mental vision, to my heart affections, it foams to overflowing with a richer, rarer vintage, than was ever pressed as yet for men, from the ambrosial fruits of the beatitudes. Pure, and strong, and swift, and beautiful, and refreshing as water, the tender regards and innocent love of woman is here! As such, I shall ever cherish it; and gushing from my heart, shall ever flow, a streamlet of thanks to you, ladies of the Fifteenth School Section.

The thought flashes across my mind, and I will give it the wings of utterance, that there is, so far as the givers of this gift are concerned, a beautiful appropriateness—a Pitcher for Water! Water is one of the purest as well as strongest elements of nature.

Water is a gift from heaven! Whether we view it on the broad and deep ocean; or the great inland ocean-lakes of our own country; or the great sweep and rush of the mighty river, on whose bosom the magnificence of commerce is borne along in floating palaces to the ocean. Every where, it is beautiful, useful and grand! How sweet the summer shower! How the parched earth opens its bosom to receive the nourishing rain-drops! How charmingly sweet, is the clear crystal brook, which murmurs the blest harmouies of nature's music through the flower-clad valleys! How joyous and grand is the gush of glad waters, as they leap out from the craggy heights of the far up mountains, and fall from rock to rock like showers of diamonds! Thus, would I work out my analogy. Woman is the purest and strongest element in society! Women is the gift of heaven! As rain to the parched earth, so is woman to the bosom of man! Sweet as the crystal brook, she sings through life the music of consolation, inspires the fainting with hope, and lifts up the fallen. She is beautiful; in her true sphere she is useful, in her real character she is grand! Such are you, ladies of the Fifteenth Section Such are you all, lady-teachers of our Public Schools. Again I thank you.

WHAT THE PRESS SAY.

Washington Monument Fair.—This pleasant festival loses none of its attractions, but on the contrary, seems to be rather on the increase. Last Saturday evening, several members of the Legislature on a visit to the city, attended the Fair. This evening, the Philadelphia Brass Band, No. 2, wil perform a selection of favorite music.

Pennsylvanian.

Washington Monument Fair.—The Fair now being held at National Hall, on Market Street, near Twelfth, has been well attended, and there is every prospect of raising quite a handsome sum for the construction of a Monument on some eligible spot in our City. Crowds of young ladies throng the Hall daily, to be seen, to be admired, and to admire the many useful, fanry and ornamental things spread out to view on tables, stands, &c. The interior of the Hall is decorated with a profusion of American flags and patriotic devices, liberally interspersed with portraits of Washington, handsomely framed.

While contemplating the moving panorama of lovely humanity—the busy throng of those in the enjoyment of the Springtime of life—whose bright eyes flashed with gladness—whose modest demeanor made them still more attractive, we could not help thinking of the words of the poet:

"Thine was the shout! the song! the bust of joy,
Which sweet from childhood's rosy lip resoundeth;
Thine was the eager spirit, nought could cloy,
And the glad heart from which all grief redoundeth.
The young, oh! what should wandering fancy bring
In life's first Springtime, but the thoughts of Spring!
World without Winter, blooming amaranth bowers,
Garlands of brightness wreathed from changeless flowers."

The first general object which attracts the attention of visitors on entering the Fair, is a large canopy, of flags erected by the Tenth Section, in front of which is a well sprung arch. Beneath the ample folds of this cone-like representation of American Freedom, is a large array of useful articles, and a number of bouquets of natural flowers, consisting of red and white japonicas, minionette, cammillas, and a variety of other specimens of floral creation,

Twelve sections of our Public Schools are well represented, and the taste displayed by the different parties in arranging the almost endless variety of goods, is every way creditable. At one turn we behold the Goddess of Liberty wrapped in the American flag; Temples of Liberty; Equestrian Statues of Washington; ogee arches, containing specimens of the handiwork of the rising generation; galvanic battery, sewing machine, post offices, lottery wheels, silver tea sets, vases of fruits and flowers, ornamental tables, engravings representing the four Seasons, opera hoods, tidies, rigolettes, doll babies, wax dolls, pin-cushins, and, as an auctioneer would say, many other things too numerous to mention.

To be fully appreciated, the vast, beautiful and patriotic display must be seen, in order to enliven the spark of patriotism that finds a genial spot in the bosoms of all who revere the name of Washington.

Messrs. Randall, A. Cooper and Gordon, are present adding to the comfort of the visitors, and arranging daily articles, that continue to arrive daily, to the best possible advantage. During the daytime the various tables stands and tents, are attended by relatives of the teachers of our Schools, and in the evening they are relieved by the teachers themselves, so that there is no loss of time during school hours.

A very beautiful writing desk was presented, an evening or two since, to Miss Thomas, an assistant teacher in the Chester street school, as a testimonial of esteem entertained by her friends for the great presence of mind evinced by her on a recent occasion of the rush among the scholars under the dreadful apprehension that the school house was on fire. By her well directed and praiseworthy efforts many a limb and, perhaps, life of the youth, partly under her charge, was saved in that trying emergency. The desk was accompanied by a note expressing the sentiments entertained for Miss Thomas for her heroism.

A large number of bouquets from different florists, as well as from the private gardens of our more wealthy citizens, have been presented, and the "cry is still they come." These delicate footprints of the Floral Goddess, make a very pleasant impression on the minds of the visitor, and add to the beauty and attractiveness of the general display. We learn that several of our most efficient bands of musicians have volunteered their services to perform choice pieces during the evenings of the present week. From present aspects we should judge the Fair would run another week, and if in future it may be considered necessary to have another one, we suggest that some one of the public squares be choosen, in order that the immense throng may be better accommodated. We consider the construction of the monument a "fixed fact," but we are not aware that a site has as yet been chosen whereon to erect it. Fairmount Park is, perhaps one of the best locations, it being high ground, on the borders of the romantic Schoylkill, and which will be, in the course of time, one of the most attractive resorts of our citizens, and strangers who visit our city.

We might have stated before, that among the articles on exhibition is a representation of Mount Vernon, done up in a bold relief style, with natural foliage, collected, we believe, near the spot, where repose the ashes of the Father of his country. It is a very pretty picture and generally admired. Intelligence, education and patriotism, like three beautiful graces, will be happily entwined or blended in this architectural pile, to the memory of the immortal Washington. Reader, don't fail to pay the Fair a visit, for by so doing you will not only be pleased and entertained, but contribute to the support of the patriotic undertaking.—Daily News, March 3d.

Washington Monument Fund.—The fund contributed years ago, by men, women, and children, for the erection of a Washington Monument, in Philadelphia, has now nearly reached the sum of $80,000. This fund is in the hands of an incoporated society, and why the members hold on to it is a matter somewhat involved in mystery. Various suggestions have been made to appropriate this fund, as intended by the donors, but the holders have refused to accept any of the propositions made, to appropriate the money to its legitimate object. If our memory serves us right, the City Councils, years ago, expressed the opinion that the only way to get at the fund was through the medium of a town meeting of citizens. We leave this partriotic subject to those who have spirit enough to make, at least, an attempt to force this society to disgorge the fund.

In the days of our boyhood we made a contribution to erect the monument, and did not intend the same to be used for the support of any society. —Daily News, March 3d.

The Washington Monument Fair.—This stupendous concern, at National Hall is daily crowded with visitors. A little newspaper called the Washington Fair Journal, edited by the Treasurer, Mr. George F. Gordon, is daily distributed in the Fair. The first number contains a leader, from which we extract the following:

"The Fair! the beautiful, beautiful Fair! Sweet as starlight it greets our sight. The Fair "vision" is dissolved! with all its fanciful beams advancing and receding—into glowing and radiant reality!"

"A success! a royal reality, rosy and lovely—is this Washington Monument Fair? A perfect sun-burst of rainbow beauty. Ah! but we forgot—it is usual in taking the chair editorial, to make 'our bow'—to usher ourself (i. e., editor), before the public with a "salutatory," but these things are too cold and formal for us. We smile. Let us all smile. And if any desire to let their imprisoned souls out in a merry, joyful laugh, let it ring and rattle, like a soul equipped with winged plumage for a journey of joy."

"Ring and rattle like a soul equipped with winged plumage," is good. The admiration comes in a "winged plumage."

One of the objects of the Journal is the publication in its columns of all the donors to the Washington Monument Association—to be hereafter bound up and deposited in the monument.

The fair will be found well worthy of a visit. —North American, March 4th.

The Washington Monument Fair.—The Fair for the benefit of the Washington Monument Fund, at National Hall, continues successful. Mr. G. F. Gordon is publishing a Washington Fair Journal, which will be continued during the festival.—Pennsylvania Inquirer.

The Washington Monument Fair, at National Hall, has been a complete success, having been visited each day and evening since its commencement by thousands. It will probably remain open during the whole of next week.—Evening Journal.

The Washington Fair.—This is the last day of the Fair for the Washington Monument in this city, and people should make a note of it. We have been prevented, by many causes, from giving this enterprise as much attention as was desirable. It has been a grand affair, in conception, design and execution. National Hall for the last three or four weeks has been crowded by multitudes of our youths and fellow-citizens, eager to testify their devotion to the memory of Washington. The room was fitted up in a manner reflecting great credit upon the fair managers under whose immediate supervision the arrangements were completed. The room was divided into sections, answering to the various school sections of our city. We have seen many fairs, during a long life of honor and usefulness, but we never saw one answering in so complete a manner our ideas of neatness and taste. It was beautiful to look upon—so many young and earnest faces, blooming with hope, and eyes large with expectation, mingling in joyous confusion and innocent disorder with others of maturer years. Parents there were, anxious to answer every wish and minister to every thought of those in whom their hopes were bound. Ladies there were, many of them teachers in our public schools—and such ways as they had! How they seduced the dimes and coaxed the dollars, and oiled the hinges of the purse, it is awful to think on. We wish we could give a minute account of each section, of the arrangements and the decorations, and the managers. We strolled in many of them for a long time, but in none so long as the Nineteenth Section, where perfection's self outrivalled perfection, and the smiles of the fair were as sweet as the zephyrs of the coming spring. But to-night is the last night, and while we do not advise anybody to go—an unnecessary advice—we would hint the probability of going early, Music with its "voluptuous swell" will mingle with the thousand other attractions to meet the gaze of all. Music and women, flowers and patriotism—a combination we shall not soon behold in such bewitching perfection.—Forney's Press.

The Monument Fair and Promenade Concert.—The Grand Promenade Concert at National Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Washington Monument Association of the First School District, was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever given in Philadelphia. The large hall was tastefully decorated with numerous American flags, which were arranged with exceeding neatness. At an early hour in the evening, and the time appointed for the commencement of the musical exercises, the Hall was literally thronged by as bright a collection of "fair women and brave men," as ever responded to the call of patriotism. Under the many gas jets, loveliness held perfect sway for several hours, and the brilliant spectacle that met the gaze of the beholder from the platform, which was almost crowded, would be an ample recompense to our mind, for the severest toils and privations of a month.

Bright faces and brighter eyes, the beauty and intelligence of Philadelphia, embodying its patriotism, were present to lend attractiveness to a dazzling and entrancing scene.

The music was discoursed by the Pennsylvania Cornet Band, under the leadership of Mr. Freeman. The various pieces were well selected, and were greeted with rapturous applause at frequent intervals The delight was universal, and must result in many gratifying reminiscences of the efforts of the managers of the recent successful Washington Monument Fair.

This evening the Concert is to be repeated Everybody, with his wife and children, will doubtless be present, and we predict, on the strength of last night's experience, that National Hall will then contain as noble a collection of youth, beauty and fashion, as can under any circumstances, be crowded into the same space.—Evening Journal

PHILADELPHIA

Washington Monument Journal.

TO BE EDITED AND PUBLISHED

BY

GEORGE F. GORDON.

The undersigned, at the urgent request of many friends, proposes to publish a Monthly Journal, to be known as the

PHILADELPHIA WASHINGTON MONUMENT JOURNAL.

The Journal, will contain a record of the proceedings of the Association, and the names of all who donate any sums of money to the erection of the Monument. It will, also, contain handsome Engravings of all plans for Monuments submitted to the Association: also, the designs, cost, history, &c., of all Monuments or Statues erected to the memory of Washington in the United States. This will make The Journal

A SPLENDID PICTORIAL.

The object of the Editor will be, to make The Journal a complete repository of Designs for Washington Monuments—as well, as all the interesting points in the History of Washington; together with a variety of matter in connection with our

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Without promising too much, we may say, that the effort will be made to make the Journal a welcome Home-visitor to every Teacher and Pupil in our Public Schools.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, PER YEAR, Delivered, ... $1 00
SINGLE NUMBERS, FIVE CENTS, Each.

☞ Profits to be devoted to the Building of the Monument.

☞ The names of all Subscribers, will be published, and finally deposited in the Monument.

☞ If every Teacher in our Public Schools will take a little interest in this matter, the circulation of the Journal can easily be made 20,000. This would aid the Monument fund very much, and enable the Association to keep men at work all the time at the Monument.

☞ A limited number of proper Advertisements will be received.

Address,

GEORGE F. GORDON,
109 Seventh Street, above Arch.

☞ Wanted, Canvassers for the Journal, either Ladies or Gentlemen.
